

HARVARD-YENCHING INSTITUTE

Fellowship Programs

For faculty and Ph.D. students in the humanities and social sciences

In conjunction with the mission of the Harvard-Yenching Institute, nominated scholars must be working in the humanities and social sciences with an emphasis on culture. We seek outstanding scholars whose work is academic rather than applied. Scholars whose research focus is comparative, and includes one or more Asian countries, are especially welcome.

About HYI fellowship programs:

- Visiting Scholars Program: Faculty members undertake 10 months of independent research at Harvard University
- Visiting Fellows Program: Advanced Ph.D. candidates conduct dissertation research at Harvard University for three semesters

For full eligibility criteria, please visit www.harvard-yenching.org or contact your international/foreign affairs office.

Fields of research in the humanities and social sciences to be considered:

- Anthropology
- Archaeology
- History (including art history, economic history and legal history)
- Linguistics
- Literature
- Philosophy
- Politics
- Religion
- Sociology

Scholars in the fields of Economics, Education, Psychology and Law may be considered.

How to apply:

- Direct applications are not accepted. Candidates must be officially nominated by their home institution. Each year a limited number of candidates can apply. Please contact your International or Foreign Affairs Office for more information.
- Candidates must be affiliated with one of HYI's partner institutions in Asia. To view the full list, visit <http://www.harvard-yenching.org/partner-institutions>.
